

Expensify Launches Native Integration with DualEntry, the AI-Native ERP Built for Mid-Market Companies

September 28, 2026

The new two-way integration syncs expenses, corporate card spend, and reimbursements directly into DualEntry

SAN FRANCISCO--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Sep. 28, 2026-- Expensify, Inc. (Nasdaq: EXFY), the easiest way to manage expenses, travel, and corporate cards, today announced a direct integration with DualEntry, the AI-native ERP built for multi-entity, multi-currency finance teams.

With the integration, businesses running DualEntry can connect Expensify in minutes for an automatic, two-way sync:

- DualEntry's chart of accounts syncs into Expensify as categories, classifications as tags, and tax rates if available
- Out-of-pocket expenses post back to DualEntry as vendor bills
- Company card spend posts as direct expenses to the right accounts
- Reimbursements and card transactions stay in sync automatically

"Finance teams shouldn't spend their time exporting CSVs between the tools that run their business," said Nick Tooker, Head of Partnerships at Expensify. "DualEntry is exactly the kind of partner we build for: AI-native, moving fast, and serious about mutual customers."

The partnership pairs two platforms built on the same conviction: that AI belongs in the back office. DualEntry brings AI-first accounting; Expensify brings AI-powered expense management used by more than 15 million people worldwide. Together they give growing companies an accounting stack that works the way modern teams do: real-time, automated, and multi-entity from day one.

"Most teams can't close until the expense reports come in, and then someone has to re-key them," said Santiago Nestares, cofounder of DualEntry. "Now, those expenses land in DualEntry already coded to the right department and project. That's one less thing standing between our customers and a daily close."

The Expensify-DualEntry integration is available now. Learn more or get started today.
